

CHECK-IN

Tips for a Positive Check-In Experience

Arrival at camp can be a time of wonder and also apprehension. Following these tips while being positive and encouraging can help reduce any overnight camp anxiety your camper may feel.

- Camp is a magical and beautiful place for your child to experience. Be honest about making new friends, being outdoors, and what they can expect.
- Arrive at your designated time. Families arriving early may have to wait for other camper groups to be signed in first.
- Multiple campers in different programs should arrive at the earlier check-in time.
- Have a brief goodbye and words of encouragement and then let our staff welcome your camper to their cabin mates.
- Making friends is a big part of camp. Talk to your camper about making at least one new friend.
- Registering for one of our Open House events prior to arrival will help familiarize both you and your camper with the surroundings and get them excited about their upcoming adventures.
- Rephrase conversations to say your camper is "going" to camp as opposed to saying that you are "sending them away to camp."
- It is natural for your camper to feel anxious prior to camp. Talk openly with your camper about it. Our staff are here to introduce them to other campers and plenty of fun activities and opportunities.
- Talk with your camper positively, using phrases such as "I am super excited for you" or "I wish I could go to camp and have this much fun." Please remember your campers excitement and enthusiasm starts with you!
- Writing letters to your camper, our one-way email and our photo gallery are great ways for you to stay connected with your camper during their stay!
